

Correct organization of the educational process

cheap essay writer

As a former student who still became a graduate specialist, I can say how to properly distribute my student life, so as not to break and with the positive to get a higher education.

So:

50% is a study. Still, let's not forget, for which we are so Yaro went to the university, the nights did not sleep before the introductory exams, they studied at the prom classes, earned good assessments and knowledge to a new life.

30% is a job. If the student has the opportunity to work, then why not take advantage of this chance to once again establish yourself in their eyes and eyes of others? Of course, partial employment should not impede the learning process so that there are no absenteeism, the teachers were not angry, the "tails" did not stretch the bridge from the semester to the semester.

20% is a vacation. In this case, we are talking about weekends, which can be carried out with friends in a noisy company. This is an excellent opportunity to relax from the school week, to morally prepare for the upcoming, distracting and relax, finally.

Here the main thing is to know the measure, because on Monday morning it is necessary in a good mood and without delays to come to the first pair and actively participate in a conversation with the teacher, and not to sleep on the back of the desk after a rapid weekend.

This is the perfect option when it is possible to greatly harmonize pleasant with useful, while not to forget about the purposes set back in the first year.

Tips for students

How to achieve such harmony? Here are some tips:

1. Try to get the maximum knowledge at lectures, so that then there was no need to sit for hours to sit in the student library to replenish gaps in memory. The process of self-escape, of course, valuable and useful, but most often takes out a lot of free time.
2. Do not walk practical and laboratory work, since it is their implementation as a result takes into account when issuing a summary assessment, and an automatic examination. To take such a practical part alone, and not with the whole group, it is much more difficult, and the teacher's questions will noticeably add.
3. If you need to walk a pair of work or family circumstances, then it is required to individually warn the teacher. He may not like such news, but it will definitely be nice that the student worries about the missed pair.

4. Calculation, rude communication, unpreparedness, sleep on the posterior party or ignoring the teacher is, as a rule, additional questions on the exam that can go beyond the framework of the curriculum. I will say easier, the teacher can simply fill out on the exam.

5. Teachers do not always love working students, believing that there is no place at the university. That is why it is better to once again not advertise the cause of its increased employment, or less walking pairs.

6. The student must know the knowledge of his absenteeism to prove its interest in studying, subject, receiving higher education.

7. Teachers need to always find a common language.

Conclusion: So everything is solved, the main thing is to competently approach this issue and remember that the primary task at the university is still to get a higher education and become a certified specialist with good prospects.
